Call for application:

European Volunteer Service at the Education Center Kurt Löwenstein

The Education Centre Kurt Löwenstein is looking for a one-year volunteer in the framework of Erasmus+-Program from the beginning of 2018 supporting the international projects.

The Educational Centre Kurt Löwenstein

The Education Centre Kurt Löwenstein is mainly active in the field of non-formal education. We organize seminars for pupils and young workers from less privileged neighborhoods in Berlin/Brandenburg. For these target groups we offer seminars in the field of active citizenship and human rights education.

Another pillar of our educational work is international projects with partner organizations from all over Europe and the Middle East. Aim of the cooperation is the active participation of young people in the European integration process, the spreading of democratic ideas and the participation of young people in society and political processes in their countries.

Main tasks

The volunteer will assist the full time staff member in the preparation, implementation and evaluation of the international seminars. Each year, we organize 5-6 international projects, which last for 8 days. These seminars deal with political issues, such as gender and sexual identity, anti-racism and anti-discrimination, peace education and other topics. Possible tasks of the volunteer range from PR-work, taking over small working groups or inputs during seminars, cooperate and communicate with partners (mainly youth organizations and other actors in the civil society) and support in the financial administration of international projects (application and reporting to the funding bodies. The volunteer can also choose to observe other seminars and projects with German pupils dealing with various topics of human rights and active citizenship
